March 16 - Career Day at Granite Oaks Middle School

Although there are many fun experiences in the middle school years, some students may be feeling the stress that comes with balancing homework, studying for tests, participating in clubs and sports, spending time with family, and navigating issues with peers. In January, Granite Oaks Counselors attended an event hosted by Rocklin Unified School District featuring a presentation by Dr. Lucy Vezzuto: SOS Stressed Out Students and What to Do About It. She offered these Seven Stress Tips for Teens written by teens participating in the Sutter Health Summer Wellness Programs:

1. Allow plenty of time. Being too busy is a big source of stress.
2. Exercise. It is a great stress buster.
3. Get plenty of rest and eat well. You will be able to handle stress better.
4. Discuss your problems with a friend or family member.
5. When stress hits big, take a time-out. A few minutes away from the problem can help.
6. Breathe deeply – slowly in, slowly out. Think of something pleasant.
7. Ask for help. If you feel like your stress is just too much, talk with your family, friend, or a counselor.

The counselors at Granite Oaks are here to help students who may be experiencing the effects of stress or are struggling academically, personally, or socially.
